Journal of School Psychology

The Journal of School Psychology publishes original articles on research and practice relevant to the development of school psychology as both a scientific and an applied specialty. The Journal also reviews tests, books, and other professional materials of interest to school psychologists.

Most manuscripts published by JSP are unsolicited. However, the Journal occasionally addresses a timely topic for which manuscripts are invited. JSP is particularly interested in assisting able school psychologists who have not published regularly.

Brief Reports and Commentaries of no more than two printed pages will be considered for publication. At the discretion of the editor, rebuttals to published commentaries may be invited. They must be willing to make an extended report of the manuscript available to readers upon request. Authors must agree not to publish a full-length report with another journal and these Brief Reports should be carefully designed and well-executed studies that, because they represent a replication or specialized topic, would not be accepted as a regular article.

All manuscripts are read by the editor and by one or more editorial consultants with the intent of providing appropriate and constructive written reviews.

Editorial Office: Manuscripts should be submitted to Joel Meyers, Programs in School Psychology, Education 232, SUNY at Albany, 1400 Washington Ave., Albany, NY 12222, USA. Please refer to the Instructions for Contributors on the inside back cover.

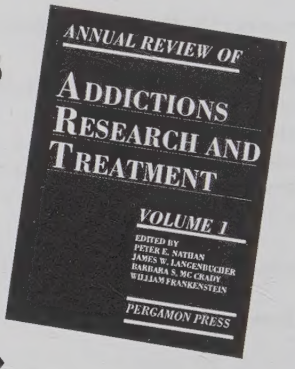
ANNUAL REVIEW OF ADDICTIONS RESEARCH AND TREATMENT

Editors: Peter E. Nathan, Ph.D., University of Iowa, James W. Langenbucher, Ph.D., Barbara S. McCrady, Ph.D., & William Frankenstein, Ph.D., Center of Alcohol Studies, Rutgers University



Aims and Scope

The Annual Review of Addictions Research and Treatment is an annual series of edited volumes designed to both summarize and put into historical perspective the developing field of alcohol and other drug studies. Presenting in their original form some of the most important recent contributions to the field's expanding literature, the Annual Review will also serve as a focus of informed debate by commentators and reviewers, each a leading authority. In turn, the editors will help guide the debate by comparing and contrasting the positions of a range of invited contributors, in order to point the way, to the extent possible, for future developments in the field.

The Annual Review is designed to serve an integrative function. To this end, it aims for a broad-based readership, consisting of researchers, clinicians, administrators, policymakers, legal professionals, and others interested in this vital emerging field. The editors anticipate that the Annual Review will keep these readers current with their own areas of special interest, as well as with developments in those areas that can inform their work. Broad domains which effectively encompass the field of addictions research and intervention will be authoritatively surveyed, commented on, and updated in each volume of the Annual Review. These domains include, pathophysiology, behavioral pathology, etiology, emergent treatment concepts and techniques, program evaluation and treatment outcome, prevention, epidemiology and population studies, policy research and initiatives, the lay treatment community, and others.

Child Abuse & Neglect
Due to the growing interest in this important field, the journal increased its frequency from four issues per year to six in 1992. Child Abuse & Neglect, The International Journal, provides an international, multidisciplinary forum on all aspects of child abuse and neglect including sexual abuse, with special emphasis on prevention and treatment. The scope extends to all those aspects of life which either favor or hinder optimal family interaction. The journal publishes a wide range of material including original, theoretical and empirical contributions; review articles describing the current situation in specific areas; exchange ideas and brief communications. The journal will provide a topical, international medium of communication in a field of rapidly increasing concern.

CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY REVIEW

CO-EDITORS-IN-CHIEF

Alan S. Bellack,
Medical College of Pennsylvania at EPPI
and Michel Hersen,
Nova University

Clinical Psychology Review publishes substantive and timely reviews on topics germane to clinical psychology. Papers cover diverse issues such as psychopathology, psychotherapy, behavior therapy, behavioral medicine, community mental health, assessment, and child development. The Journal provides the most current and accurate material available in a professional, unbiased way, and maintains the highest scholarly standards. In addition, reviews on other topics, such as psychophysiology, learning therapy and social psychology, may also appear when they have a clear relationship to research or practice in clinical psychology. Clinical Psychology Review is "must" reading for all members of the scientific and clinical community.
